air cargo forum does have a new home: Welcome to Miami 2020!

The host cities powerful advantages

The air cargo forum is the most traditional meeting of the air cargo community in the world. After stops all over the world, it now finds a new home in the booming Florida metropolis in the south of the USA.

The TIACA event thus complements the worldwide coverage of the most important air cargo exhibitions and also offers the central platform for connections, especially to South America but also to the other continents.

Boasting a strategic location as "Gateway to the World," outstanding infrastructure, low taxes and a highly desirable lifestyle, Miami beckons tech entrepreneurs, businesses and innovators with its robust network of incubators, accelerators and more. From startups and mid-market companies to Fortune 500 leaders, businesses find an ecosystem that not only helps their business thrive but also provides a talented, multilingual workforce.

The newly renovated Miami Beach Convention Center brings together all the advantages of the vibrant location at the highest level. This is where the veterans of our industry meet with the greenhorns of the business. An unprecedented mixture!
